this book discusses the popularity of temporary and child marriages in iran and afghanistan and explores their historical background and the reasons why they still persist today further it offers readers insights into the emotional and psychological violence that the women who have been subjected to these practices experience the respective contributions address the persistence of these traditions their ramifications for the wellbeing of women and the development of societies and human relations taken together they offer an excellent academic tool for students academics and researchers studying the anthropology and sociology of kinship and family in the middle east the current rise of islamism throughout the muslim world islamists demand for the establishment of islamic states and their destabilizing impact on regional and global orders have raised important questions about the origins of islamism and the nature of an islamic state beginning with the iranian revolution of the late 1970s and the establishment of the islamic republic to today s rise of isis to prominence it has become increasingly apparent that islamism is a major global force in the twenty first century that demands acknowledgment and answers as a highly integrated belief system the islamic worldview rejects secularism and accounts for a prominent role for religion in the politics and laws of muslim societies islam is primarily a legal framework that covers all aspects of muslims individual and communal lives in this sense the islamic state is a logical instrument for managing muslim societies even moderate muslims who genuinely but not necessarily vociferously challenge the extremists strategies are not dismissive of the political role of islam and the viability of an islamic state however sectarian and scholastic schisms within islam that date back to the prophet s demise do undermine any possibility of consensus about the legal institutional and policy parameters of the islamic state within its shi a sectarian limitations this book attempts to offer some answers to questions about the nature of the islamic state nearly four decades of experience with the islamic republic of iran offers us some insights into such a state s accomplishments potentials and challenges while the islamic worldview offers a general framework for governance this framework is in dire need of modification to be applicable to modern societies as iranians have learned in the realm of practical politics transcending the restrictive precepts of islam is the most viable strategy for building a functional islamic state indeed islam does provide both doctrinal and practical instruments for transcending these restrictions this pursuit of pragmatism could potentially offer impressive strategies for governance as long as sectarian scholastic and autocratic proclivities of authorities do not derail the rights of the public and their demand for an orderly management of their societies this book provides a multidimensional analysis of iran s struggle for development between 1970 and 2020 the past several decades in iran have been a period of sluggish and noninclusive economic growth ill fated social engineering with an islamic template political repression and extensive environmental degradation the intellectual discourse surrounding the impediments of growth in iran has been dominated by an exaggerated notion of the role of ideology class struggles imperialism and histori cal contingencies overlooking the profound impacts of institutions and fundamental socioeconomic trends this book aims to fill this gap using positive economics and data driven analysis to cover a wide array of topics such as governance corruption energy and food security it will be essential for researchers policy makers and journalists cordesman provides a net assessment of the political economic energy security internal and external and military trends in iran an echo of silence a comprehensive research study on early child marriage ecm in iran kameel ahmady whilst working on the issue of female genital mutilation in iran in the name of tradition in this book kameel ahmady also brought a focus to the early marriage of children and high rates of this harmful phenomenon in iran he conducted a two year study on child marriage in the seven provinces of khorasan razavi east azerbaijan khuzestan sistan and baluchistan west azerbaijan hormozgan and isfahan drawing on official country statistics the results of this research have been published in farsi kurdish and english languages according to the religious structure of iran maturity for girls begins with the first monthly menstruation considered as the threshold of transition from childhood to adulthood which happens around age of 9 this physical and biological threshold means being able to marry regardless of the actual age and ability to govern your marital life although early marriage applies to both young girls and boys in fact the bitter reality of the society indicates that the consequences and effects of the phenomenon of child marriage on girls are far more serious and dangerous undoubtedly social investment in girls expanding their social and economic capital and ensuring their access to education and health services is a clear driver towards gender equality to provide for stronger communities but child marriage does the contrary a lack of independent and credible studies on child marriage in iran means there is little information and data but according to the legal adviser of the iranian judiciary the official and state statistics suggest that between 500 to 600 thousand children per year iran are getting married and these are only the statistics for marriages that officially registered without including those outside the formal marriage process now there are around 14 000 child widows in the country and according to estimates from the united nations 17 percent of all marriages in iran are under the age of 18 further some men who have more than one spouse in iran do not register their child marriages and hide them this comprehensive research first attempts to analyse the prevalence of child marriage in iran with an emphasis on socio cultural factors that reflect the profound and deep rooted inequalities which have contributed to the persistence of child marriage in iran the scientific reason for doing this research is to explain the evidence and prevalence of this traumatic practice in iran and to assist government decision makers in focusing on the immediate protection of these children s human rights this book as an effort to expose and deepen understandings of the issue of child marriage in iran has attracted the attention of civil activists government policymakers and some parliamentary representatives and mps it has provided the background to proposals for raising the minimum age for child marriage amending article 1041 of the civil code this proposal was approved by the house of representatives in an emergency and with a majority of votes but unanimously rejected by the majlis legal and judicial commission as the only fieldwork study these research findings were predicated on producing civil society advocacy and the need for parliament to amend the law in the community level the research has raised a wave of public awareness leading to a serious civil society demand for a ban on child marriage and raising the age of marriage from 13 to 16 for girls and from 15 to 18 for boys early child marriage child marriage in islam age of marriage in iran cohabitation in iran white marriage white marriage in iran female gentle mutilation or cutting female gentle mutilation in iran female gentle cutting in iran fgm in iran human rights in iran feminization and poverty in iran divorce rates in iran divorce laws in iran marriage laws in iran virginity in iran why did the place of formerly powerful eurasian land empires like that of iran change so dramatically in global affairs over the course of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries this book explores this critical transitional period in iranian history from an environmental perspective it argues that severe ecological challenges dating to the late seventeenth century and deepening during the post safavid crisis of the eighteenth century drove a decline in the population and resource base of the iranian plateau this in turn shaped ongoing environmental challenges in the qajar period and on into the 20th century presenting a new set of perspectives on key sources with new questions in mind the lion and the sun relies upon scientific evidence such as geographic information system data and tree ring analysis as well as a careful re engagement with existing sources re interpreting court chronicles administrative orders local histories geographical texts and endowment deeds the book reveals the way in which the relationship between imperial systems and the rest of nature formed the modern state of iran an important and original contribution it will be essential reading for scholars and students of global environmental history and the modern middle east
